Lawful bases and data protection rights

Under UK data protection law, we must have a “lawful basis” for collecting and using your personal information. There is a list of possible lawful bases in the UK GDPR. You can find out more about lawful bases on the ICO’s website.

Which lawful basis we rely on may affect your data protection rights which are in brief set out below. You can find out more about your data protection rights and the exemptions which may apply on the ICO’s website:

- Your right of access - You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal information. You can request other information such as details about where we get personal information from and who we share personal information with.

There are some exemptions which means you may not receive all the information you ask for. You can read more about this at <https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/advice-for-small-organisations/create-your-own-privacy-notice/your-data-protection-rights/#roa>

- Your right to rectification - You have the right to ask us to correct or delete personal information you think is inaccurate or incomplete. You can read more about at <https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/advice-for-small-organisations/create-your-own-privacy-notice/your-data-protection-rights/#rtr>

- Your right to erasure - You have the right to ask us to delete your personal information. You can read more about at <https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/advice-for-small-organisations/create-your-own-privacy-notice/your-data-protection-rights/#rte>

- Your right to restriction of processing - You have the right to ask us to limit how we can use your personal information. You can read more about at <https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/advice-for-small-organisations/create-your-own-privacy-notice/your-data-protection-rights/#rtrop>

- Your right to object to processing - You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data. You can read more about
